

THET's Volunteering Resources

Resource Name	Brief
Volunteer Support	Health partnership activities are based on building capacity through volunteer exchange. Therefore, volunteer support and management is essential for the effectiveness of health partnership activities.
Tailored Volunteer support	An insight to how the Global Links programme has tailored its training course to provide thorough preparation for volunteers
Anesthesia training in Zambia – a volunteer perspective – part 2	A blog by Dr Lowri Bowen on her experience during her 6 month volunteer post in Zambia with the Zambian Anaesthetic development programme (ZADP) at the University teaching hospital in Lusaka.
Engaging in Global health	This framework focuses on how voluntary international development work can contribute to building and sustaining capacity in low- and middle-income countries. It also outlines the benefits and opportunities for UK employers, professional associations and individual volunteers from the UK health sector.
Duty of Care Toolkit	A duty of care toolkit aimed at those working in health partnerships, and specifically those with HPS grants. This document is produced for guidance only, and should be used together with contextually specific information and professional advice to create the tools required to ensure robust duty of care procedures for your own programme
All party parliamentary group (AAPG) report on volunteering overseas	This report describes how British health volunteers help to make big improvements in health in other countries whilst at the same time benefiting the UK
Volunteering support	Hear more about the benefits of volunteering abroad through a health partnership from people who have done so and also how THET currently supports volunteers.
Long term volunteering webinar	Focus on long-term volunteering and international placement contributions to health partnerships. The following institutions are represented Africa Health Placements, Health Education England, The University of Salford and The Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health.
Midwifery & Health partnership volunteering	Hear accounts from Midwives on their experiences of volunteering through a health partnership
